

The Holidays

Once again the holidays are here
But only in our hearts can you be near
We miss you Jarret more and more each day
But especially when the holidays come our way

We try to laugh and have some fun
But it's difficult after burying our only son
Our fourth holiday season; without you again
You were more than our son, but also our best friend

Holidays are hard; but like every other day
We struggle through only trying to find our way
Memories from our past help somewhat get us through
But we long for the day when we'll actually see you

18 years, 1 month and 9 days you made it worthwhile
Now we would give anything just to see your smile
You always made the holidays exciting and fun
We miss you Jarret, but your new journey has begun

May 14, 2006 you became a Spirit in the Sky
We know we'll see you again Jarret
But until then, the holidays continue to pass by

04-05-88 / 05-14-06

Jarret Austin Clark was our only child; he was murdered on Mother's Day, May 14, 2006. Mother's Day is an exceptionally difficult day for my family and me, but my heart goes out to all parents who have had to bury their child and/or children.

May your holidays be filled with happy memories.
